DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims 7-16 drawn to an invention nonelected with traverse in Paper Filed July 15, 2005. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancellation of nonelected claims or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Alexandre Catlin et al. (2002/0169092) herein after Alexandre. Alexandre discloses a container for a product for dissolution in a liquid, comprising: a sealed pouch made of a material that is soluble in said liquid; a product contained in a pouch; and a gas contained in the pouch in sufficient quantity to cause the pouch to be resilient at ambient conditions. See page 15, paragraphe [0181].

With respect to claim 3, see page 8, paragraph [0097] which teaches the pouch being made of polyvinyl alcohols.

Paragraph [0181] discloses that the ratio of the air bubble diameter to the maximum lateral dimension of the pouch will affect the compressibility of the pouch. By changing the volume of the air bubble the pressure is inherently changed. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the ration of the air bubble diameter to the maximum lateral dimension of the pouch, which in turn will inherently affect the pressure within the pouch, and the compressibility of the pouch. Furthermore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to adjust the gas pressure, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed July 15, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that Alexandre is changing the ratio of the volume of the liquid to the volume of air, the fact that applicant has recognized another advantage which would flow naturally from following the suggestion of the prior art cannot be the basis for patentability when the differences would otherwise be obvious. See Ex parte Obiaya, 227 USPQ 58, 60 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1985), i.e. by changing the volume ration the pressure is inherently changed.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
